

Dear [Editor's name with their appropriate title],

My name is [Insert your full name] and I am a PhD student from [Insert your university's name]. My coauthors and I would like to submit our paper, entitled [Write the name of your paper] to your journal for consideration.

My field of research is [Insert field of research] and I have published other papers on this topic, including [Add two or three papers, if you have them – if not, then omit this last part of the sentence]. My coauthors are [Insert your coauthors' names] and they are [Insert their positions at your university]. They are experts in this field with publications such as, [Insert some publications they have in this particular field].

We believe that this manuscript would be a good fit for your journal because it meets the scope outlined on your journal's homepage, [Insert the key phrases in the journal's scope that your paper aligns with]. It also fits in with other papers published in your journal, such as, [Add a couple of papers you have cited from their journal], and as such have also been cited in our paper. Our manuscript also contains important information for other researchers in our field to know, such as, [Insert one or two key findings that other researchers in your field would find important].

Thank you for your consideration,

[Insert name]

[Insert position]

[Insert university]

[Insert link(s) to your Google Scholar profile and/or ResearchGate profile]